Fostoria Mazda electric lamps at Hodges'.

Today the sun rises at 5.48 and sets at 5.57.

Send us a dollar and we will send you the Register eight months.

Butter is 30 cents a pound today and eggs are 36 cents a dozen.

Wheat is $1.16 a bushel today in the local markets. Corn is 55 cents.

Full line of blankets, comforts and staple dry goods just in at Hodges'.

Friday of this week at 9.20 a. m. summer will take its departure and autumn will ascend the throne of the seasons.

85-cet. Wear-ever Aluminum pans on sale at A. I. Grandstaff's Charles Town, from September 26 to October 8th, for 39 cents only.

I will sell my general household furniture at public sale Friday afternoon, September 23d, at 2 p. m.—Mrs. Carrie J. Triplett.

County Superintendent of Schools I. N. Bonham, of Summit Point, was thrown from his horse one day last week and had his collarbone broken.

Miss Helen B. Pendleton, who will close the Little Green Tea House for the winter, will sell a lot of household goods on Saturday. See advertisement.

Yesterday was one of the rainiest days we have had in a long while. From morning until night one storm followed another and at times the rain fell in torrents.

Secretary C. S. Musser, of the Morgan's Grove fair, gives the estimated receipts of the fair this year as $8,000, with expenses of $6,500, thus leaving a profit of $1,500.

A mistake was made last week in giving the name of the prettiest boy baby at Morgan's Grove fair. It was Wilbur Ro-and Bond, not Morrow, of Bakerton, who got the silver cup.

Mrs. Charlotte Pendleton Goldsborough is in charge of the music department of Shepherd College until Professor White shall be able to fill the position by a permanent appointment.

J. Butler Ronemus has moved from the Hill residence on Main street to the Turner property, opposite the cemetery. E. E. Harwood, who occupied the Turner house, has broken up housekeeping.

The McBride farm of 235 acres at Roxbury Station, Washington county, Md., was sold two years ago for $35,500. It was put up at public sale in Hagerstown on Tuesday and was bid up to only $24,205.

Miss Angelica P. Didier, for the past seventeen years the superintendent of Memorial hospital, in Winchester in order to enter a larger field of hospital work at Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Emma Miller and daughter wish to thank their friends for the many acts of kindness during the bereavement occasioned by the illness and death of James T. Miller, and for the beautiful flowers and the use of automobiles.

Miss Agnes Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walker, north of town, was taken to the King's Daughters' Hospital in Martinsburg on Monday, where she was operated upon for appendicitis. She is said to be getting along very well.

Owens' drug store has just gotten in some very attractive new post-cards of scenes in about Shepherdstown—Main street, the Rumsey monument, Lover's Leap and the river, views at Antietam, etc. They are very pretty and interesting.

Here's a pleasant message from Mrs. A. B. Shepherd, of Pittsburg: "We all enjoy the Register so much that it gives me great pleasure to renew our subscription, and I am taking this occasion to pay for it for the two coming years. Thank you for sending it always so promptly."

H. Peltz, proprietor of a grocery store in Martinsburg which was burned out on the night of August 28th, was arrested and held for the grand jury on the charge of arson and attempt to defraud insurance companies. State officials at Charleston are pushing the case.

C. D. Wysong and J. C. Unger last week advertised in the Register that they had apples for sale. The paper was hardly off the press before all of the apples were sold and people were clamoring for more. It pays to advertise in the Register. Why not do more of it?

The Shepherdstown Chapter of the U. D. C. held a very interesting meeting last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller near Scrabble. After the business session and a literary programme, which was enjoyed greatly by members and guests, refreshments were served and a pleasing social hour was spent.

George T. Hodges, who has had a position with one of the big steel mills in Pittsburg for several years past, has given up his work there, and will move with his family to Shepherdstown, where he will go to housekeeping in the Hodges home corner of Main and Princess streets. Mr. Hodges will assist in the management of the store of his brother, S. J. Hodges.

The valuable real estate of the late G. W. M. Tabler in Berkeley and Jefferson counties will be sold at public sale Saturday of this week in Martinsburg. The property consists of three excellent farms and the residence of the deceased at Scrabble. These farms, which are described in another column of the Register, are very desirable and should bring good prices.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Miss Helen Pendleton will close her Little Green Tea House this week and in a few days will leave for Atlanta, Georgia, where she will remain until next summer. She has accepted an engagement to do social settlement and Red Cross work in Atlanta for a term of eight months—a service in which she is especially skilled, having had much experience both in northern and southern cities.

Lieutenant and Mrs. H. R. Mytinger have returned to their home at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois, after spending several weeks with Mrs. Mytinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Moore, near Harper's Ferry. Mrs. Floyd E. Davis and her baby, Nancy Jane, accompanied them as far as Dayton, Ohio, where she now resides.

Miss Elsie Samuel, daughter of Mrs. Kate Samuel, of Baltimore, has gone to Charlotte, N. C., where she has a position as music teacher in Queen's College. Miss Samuel, who has relatives in Shepherdstown, is an accomplished musician, having been a student at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore for some years past.

Messrs. G. W. Hoffman and C. N. Whiting have been in Martinsburg this week, serving on the grand jury of the United States Court. Messrs. Harrison Schley and M. G. Bast were on the petit jury.

Mrs. Howard Ambrose and Mrs. James W. Covert, of Engle, this county, called at the Register office this past week and renewed their subscriptions.

Mrs. O. L. Park and her little daughter Zula, of Fabius, W. Va., spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. R. Hendricks Byers, on Sandy Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Simons, of Washington, have been in Shepherdstown this week visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Malone.

Daniel B. Lucas, Jr., has returned to Emmittsburg, Md., to resume his duties at Mt. St. Mary's College.

Miss Agnes Gibson has gone to Washington and Baltimore for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Lydia Wageley and Miss Anna Wageley have returned from a pleasant visit to Pittsburg, their former home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wysong spent the past week with friends and relatives in New Market, Va.

In Pulpit and Pew.

Episcopal Convocation.

The 50th semi-annual meeting of the Eastern Convocation of the Diocese of West Virginia began in Trinity Episcopal Church, Shepherdstown, Tuesday evening. The evening service was read and the sermon was delivered by Rev. A. B. Mitchell, of Charles Town. Wednesday morning the holy communion was celebrated by Bishop W. L. Gravatt, the sermon being preached by Rev. Conrad H. Goodwin, of Charles Town. In the afternoon a business session was held and parochial reports were read. Wednesday evening an address was delivered by Rev. Robert B. Nelson, of Winchester, on "The Relationship of the Church to the Community as a Challenge to Laymen." This Thursday morning the sermon will be by Rev. Dudley Boogher, of Martinsburg, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon The Woman's Auxiliary of the Convocation will hold its meeting. The session will conclude tonight, when addresses will be delivered by Bishop Gravatt and Archdeacon Chrisman.

The ladies of the parish have been serving delicious luncheons each day in the old college hall, which have been greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

Hog Cholera About.

Hog cholera has made its appearance northwest of Shepherdstown, having manifested itself on the places of J. W. Ware, Jr., George Miller and Walter McDonald, all in the same locality. Farmers of that section are having their hogs inoculated against the disease, which threatens to be serious unless steps are taken to combat it.

Some Reflections of a Veteran.

Editor Register—After the lapse of a few years I am glad to stand once more upon the banks of the old Potomac, whose rippling waters murmur a paean of everlasting praise to deeds of immortal honor once enacted on her shores. I am glad to be the guest of the good people of Shepherdstown and the grand old county of Jefferson, which to my mind ought never to have been divorced from its mother State. The very air and aroma of its people are so much akin to my own that I always feel as much at home here as there. I rejoice most of all that I am a veteran among veterans who made the best army that ever trod this earth.

I remember quite well that just across the river was fought one of the most sanguinary battles of the Civil War, and today on its anniversary I rejoice to stand in the midst of ranks that never were or will be broken by the loss of a single soldier true to his cause and his home. All the clouds of all the valleys with all the rest breathing daisies of superincumbent burial could never keep away from his roll call a single brave heart that stood for honor on the field of battle. Lee and Jackson, the Johnstons, Gordon, Stewart and all the rest are just as real as the splendid soldier who survives today. The choir that raised the rebel yell has never lost a note, all its music in highest register goes sounding down the ages because it is the paean of glory.

The Confederate flag was never folded, was never weary, though the patriot Ryan told us so, because it always symbolized and will always symbolize immortal liberties whose fitting home is its stars, and will float forever upon every heaven-kissed breeze. I feel at home here because I am the brother of every man who went to glory at the bidding of him who once led Hood's fighting brigade in the Wilderness of old Virginia, and you are my brothers who ever went to the charge of the Army of Northern Virginia; aye, you are my brothers who followed the gleam of the best, the bluest and truest saber that ever flashed athwart the sky of Mars. The bold and fearless rider, the fiercest Paladin, the gentlest gentleman, the man with the nerve of the whirlwind—whether he kept a dainty slipper from the mud or held the common weal of a nation upon the couch of his lance, the smile of utmost joy on his face whether he listened to the strains of Swinney's banjo or charged better than the six hundred at Balaklava, let it be our own darling Jeb Stewart.

Now after the lapse of half a century the crowning glory of all the past, to us at least, is the realization that the Sons of Veterans who wore the blue and the gray have kept the faith of the fathers and went across the seas and over the top in the fields of France and finally brought the arrogant Hun to his knees. God bless our returned maimed soldiers and the rest, and keep them fit for a home beyond the stars.

May the day soon dawn when all nations and peoples of the earth will erect an altar and lay not thereon the trophies of war but the fruits of an enduring peace.

An Old Confederate.

Shepherdstown, Sept. 17, 1921.

Kind Brother After Many Years.

While visiting her old home in Frederick county, Va., several weeks ago, Mrs. Luther Boyd, of Shenandoah Junction, was interviewed by the administrator of her father's estate, who told her he might as well divide her brother's share of the money, as he had been absent thirty years and had not been heard from for fifteen years. On her return home she was impressed with the fact that he must be living and wrote several postmasters in the State of Kansas, where she had last heard from him. A reply from the postmaster at Chautauqua, Kansas, told her that her brother, Wm. Sirbaugh, lived about 80 feet from him and was the first man in the postoffice every morning, that he had known him since 1895, that he was a fine fellow and quite a prominent man in the community.

Would Establish a Factory.

Representatives of a Baltimore firm were in Shepherdstown Monday night conferring with the Chamber of Commerce in regard to the establishment here of a branch overall factory. A proposition was submitted and will be considered. It is desired to employ from 80 to 100 girls and women—a minimum of 60 would be accepted to start with—and wages would run, it is said, from $8.00 to $15.00 weekly, depending upon the skill of the operators. The chief difficulty in the way of making the proposition a go is the problem of securing sufficient employees. An effort will be made to enroll the desired number.

Majesty Bull Calf For Sale.

By Buttercup Oxford Majesty, out of Glory's Baby, a most promising growing dairy cow. Calf is full brother to Oxford Majesty's Josephine, one of the great prize-winning and show heifers of the day. Josephine was grand champion female as a calf and grand champion again this year as a yearling at Morgan's Grove fair. When the judge placed the ribbon he said she is good enough to go to the National Dairy Show, the court of last resort, and be in the money, and he said he would like to own a barn full just like her. We feel that this is a great compliment, coming from one whose judgment is valued so highly by some of the greatest breeders of Jerseys. We exhibited nine Majestys and only one as much as two years old and received two firsts, three seconds, two thirds and grand champion female of the show. Also four calves I had sold won one first and three seconds. If you want to win the ribbons breed Majestys, the aristocracy of the Jersey breed.

C. S. BILLMYER, Shepherdstown, W. Va.
